CORNELL-PENN. GAME TODAY

Closes Football Season in the East Except for Army and Navy Contest at New York Saturday

The football season, except for the Army-Navy game Saturday, closes in the east today. The Cornell-Pennsylvania game at Philadelphia is attracting most attention. Other games are nearly local in interest, although the Penn State-Pittsburgh game at Pittsburgh may have some influence toward deciding the eastern leadership.

The more important games on today's card are:

Cornell vs. Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. Penn State vs. Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh. Villanova vs. Fordham at New York. Wesleyan vs. Columbia at New York. Lehigh vs. Washington and Jefferson at Washington.

Rutgers vs. New York at New York. Lafayette vs. Dickinson at Easton. Bucknell vs. Lebanon Valley at Lewisburg.

The Syracuse-Montana game at Missoula, Mont., is attracting considerable interest.

CADETS HAVE GONE THROUGH HARD WORK
Coaches Give West Point Stiff Drill in Preparation for Navy Battle.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 24.—The final heavy work for the Army football team in preparation for the Navy game was gone through today. The coaches drove the big team through a stiff hour's drill with the scrubs or "Navy" eleven. Most of the time was spent on the defensive, but the men were also put through a long session at rehearsing the plays in dummy scrimmages, the backs walking through the formations. New plays designed to baffle the Navy lads got a specially careful polishing from Head Coach Day.

Several changes were made in the makeup of the varsity, but those men used in the substitutions were first string players who are likely to get into the Navy game at some stage. The line, Knight alternated with O'Hara at guard and Parker worked for a while in Captain Weyand's place at right tackle. Gerhardt drove the backfield combination which is booked to start for the Army on Saturday, consisting of Ford and Oliphant at halves and Coffin at full.

SOUTHERN INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES
Georgia and Auburn Tech Meet in Big Game Today.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 24.—The game here tomorrow between Georgia and Auburn Tech is the one football day's closing bearing on claims to the championship of southern intercollegiate athletic association territory. Tech and Vanderbilt thus far have not been defeated in the territory and the latter team are expected to defeat Auburn Virginia and North Carolina. Auburn will meet at Richmond in the south Atlantic football classic, and the latter records the Virginia team has a wide advantage.

Vanderbilt expects an easy victory over Sewanee at Nashville.

NAVY'S LINEUP ANNOUNCED.
Midships Receive Final Instructions from Coaches.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 24.—Lining up the Navy regulars against the scrubs who went through the favorite plays of West Point as seen by Navy scouts during the season, the coaches gave final instructions this afternoon to the midshipsmen prior to the inter-service game at New York Saturday. Tomorrow morning there will be a brief signal drill before the team leaves for New York.

Although there has been no formal notification by the coaches, it is generally understood that the team which Crasig will start the game at quarter back in place of Captain Miles. Crasig is out to win and wipe out the defeat which they sustained at the hands of the Taftville team last Saturday. One of the fastest games ever seen on this ground is expected.

CORNELL MEETS PENN

THIS AFTERNOON.
Both Elevens Have Light Practice Wednesday in Preparation for Contest.

Philadelphia, Nov. 24.—Both the University of Pennsylvania and Cornell football squads were given light practice today in preparation for tomorrow's contest on Franklin field.

The Pennsylvania players ran through their plays on the golf links of the Whitehurst Country club, where they will remain until noon tomorrow. The Cornell team had its workout in Atlantic City and will stay at the seashore until tomorrow morning.

Head Coach Sharpe announced that the lineup of the big eleven would be the same as that which started against Washington and Lee. The makeup of the Pennsylvania team had not definitely been decided upon tonight.

Despite the wide disparity of the records of the two teams in the season, the contest is expected to be of much interest in the result of the game. The visitors, with an unbroken string of victories to their credit, are determined to win a decisive victory and clinch their claim to the championship of the big eastern colleges.

The Pennsylvania coaches and players, on the other hand, are hoping that the Red and Blue team will provide much sport, and the Army team was victorious by one long touchdown.

After passing a most successful season this afternoon, when they met Eddie Murray's All-Collegians on the campus, Captain Murray said last night that if the campus is in good condition his Collegians will run away from the Red and White champions in a manner they won't forget. "Play! We have a great assortment," says Eddie. "We will spring them with good effect."

On the campus Wednesday afternoon the so-called Army and Navy game provided much sport, and the Army team was victorious by one long touchdown.

HARVARD HAS ADVANTAGE OVER YALE PRINCETON.

Tigers and Ellis Have Their Biggest Opponents in Two Successive Weeks.

Princeton and Yale will support a proposal to have the football scheduled for Harvard and Princeton shifted slightly for next year as a result of the Crimson's victories in the season just closed. The football authorities at New Haven and Princeton believe that Harvard has a mammoth advantage every season by having a fortnight intervene between its two big games, in which a contest with a weaker opponent is scheduled, while the Tigers and Elis must meet their two greatest opponents in two successive weeks.

May Sign Agreement.
The three universities may enter into a triangular football agreement similar to the baseball agreement which they annually sign, whereby Harvard and Princeton may be so arranged as to shift the advantage of a fortnight's vacation to a different team each year instead of leaving it to the Harvard and Princeton players.

Princeton advances the suggestion this year, and with apparent good reason. The Harvard and Princeton battle to Yale was attributed in a large measure to the manner in which they had to wear themselves out by playing Princeton and Harvard in the form that it played against Harvard.

The Daily Princetonian, the undergraduate newspaper, proposes that Harvard and Princeton agree to play each other in the fall by agreeing to allow their two biggest rivals to share the advantage that Harvard's teams have been enjoying for several years, since the two universities have played on one another's schedules. The editorial utterance of the Princeton paper is as follows:

"Harvard can perfect a system for Princeton, use it to the limit and throw into the contest all the resources of the Harvard team. The Harvard team then has a fortnight in which to complete its plan, point them out to the Harvard team and recoup her forces."

"It would be sportsmanlike and just for the Harvard athletic authorities to agree to let Yale and Princeton turn and turn about in this undoubted strategic advantage. Harvard would win the approval of Princeton and Yale men, and her glory would be the greater on occasions when she is the conqueror."

Harvard does not look with any favor on this proposal, for such an arrangement as is suggested would mean that Harvard would have to give up the two big games of the season, and would ruffle the present steady trend of Harvard's football success.

Coach Houghton says his plans for the Princeton and Yale games principally, and the rest of the schedule is each year built to protect the Harvard team from the main battles of the year.

In 1911 and 1912 Harvard had a great football season. In 1911 the Harvard team won its last three games on the end of its schedule with Princeton, Dartmouth and Yale. In 1912 the Harvard team defeated the Harvard team 8 to 6, Harvard was defeated by Princeton only 5 to 0, and there was a scoreless tie with Yale.

Better Results Formerly.
In 1912 this trio of games was played just the same with much better results. Harvard won its last three games on the end of its schedule with Princeton, Dartmouth and Yale. In 1912 the Harvard team defeated the Harvard team 8 to 6, Harvard was defeated by Princeton only 5 to 0, and there was a scoreless tie with Yale.

Smiling Al McCoy Suspended.

Smiling Al McCoy, middleweight titleholder, who is more commonly known as the cheese champion, and Zulu Kid, partners to a long delay perpetrated on the public recently at the Clemen rink, have been suspended by the New York boxing commission from further fighting activity for a period of 30 days.

Aside from the fact that the fight fans are likely to survive during the coming winter, the suspension of the two fighters marks a clearly defined policy on the part of the New York boxing commission to protect the patrons of the sport from the Fabian policy of pugs, who prefer to negotiate with themselves, all of whom would rather keep the door public waiting than anything else they do.

Pitcher Shaw Shot.
It has become known that James Shaw, a pitcher of the Washington club of the American league, was probably fatally injured while hunting in Westmoreland county. Shaw and a friend were hunting in a field when Shaw was accidentally discharged as he climbed over a fence. The charge entered his back and he was taken to a hospital near by and then taken to a hospital at Pittsburgh.

"Pud" McTigh Signs with Tigers.
Detroit, Nov. 24.—"Pud" McTigh, a left handed pitcher, who made a fine showing with the Toronto club of the Canadian league, has been signed today by the Detroit Americans. President Frank J. Navin, of the local club, made the announcement.

Power Patch, the 5 year old son of Dan Patch 1:55 1-4, and Effie Powers 2:08 1-4, that lately took a record of 1:52 1-2 in the American Trotting Association, is highly considered for 1916 events. He has a tremendous clip as his performance record shows. He has been in full bloom of his season and is a real horse.

Michigan is trying to arrange a game next fall with either Dartmouth or Princeton. The Michigan team is going to Ann Arbor, but is willing to play at Princeton. Chicago university is also anxious to get Dartmouth to trip west.

Dan Sullivan, manager of the Keene club of the Twin-State league, had another successful season as coach of the Keene academy football eleven. Dean claims to be the second strongest "prep" eleven in New England.

Kitty Bransfield, former big league first baseman, Bill Dahlen, former Brooklyn manager, and Charles McGowan, former St. Louis manager, have been applied for jobs as National league umpires.

Syracuse gained 96 yards by rushing to 45 by Dartmouth, and of that 96

the main reason that it has selected for its coach a man not experienced as a coach of a big eleven, but rather an unknown to far as the East is concerned. Thorpe was considered along with several other stars, but the Columbia faculty demanded a man who not only could teach football but must be a member of the faculty.

Harvard and Princeton are now in business. The football authorities at New Haven and Princeton believe that Harvard has a mammoth advantage every season by having a fortnight intervene between its two big games, in which a contest with a weaker opponent is scheduled, while the Tigers and Elis must meet their two greatest opponents in two successive weeks.

"Baltimore has vindicated its claim that it is a full-fledged major league city and will most certainly be represented in the Federal league next season," remarks Judge Harry Goldman, vice president of the Baltimore Terrapins. With the exception of the Giants of last season, all American cities ever drew any better than did the Terrapins. Our attendance, especially in the latter part of the season, was remarkable when it is considered that we were hopelessly last all season."
